I Received comments from three reviewers and after implementing all the suggestions mentioned by the reviewers my article looked better and It will be better understandable for the readers. I could reduce the plagiarism, could write the title in better way, and could provide more simple 2D figures with explanation. More over the time duration provided by the journal was about 20 days and that helped me to do major changes in my result. Thank you so much. Looking forward for the publication of this article in “International Journal of circuit, systems and signal processing”.
